GREAT FINANCIAL PARLEY OPENS IN PARIS

14 PRINCIPAL DELEGATES ARE IN SESSION

CHAIRMANSHIP MAY BE OFFERED OWEN D. YOUNG OF AMERICA

TO SETTLE QUESTION OF HOW GERMANY SHALL BEAR REPARATIONS LOAD

Paris, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The first semi-official meeting of the fourteen principal delegates to the historic reparations conference started shortly before noon today in the gold room of the Bank of France.

It was expected the delegates would exchange views regarding the choice of a chairman, which position probably will be offered to Owen D. Young, unofficial United Press delegate.

If Young refuses to accept the chair, the majority of the delegates probably will insist that he take it. Despite the importance of the meeting, the public ignored it and there was nobody present to watch the arrival of the delegates.

Alberto Pirelli and Antonio Su- vitch, Italian delegates, were the first arrivals. They were followed by the German delegates, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht and Albert Voegler.

Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France and one of the French delegates, greeted the guests and when all had arrived a reception was held in the gold room of the bank, where Moreau introduced the delegates and welcomed them on behalf of France.

After the preliminary discussions, luncheon was served in Moreau's private apartments.

Paris, Feb. 9.—Fourteen financial and economic experts representing seven nations met today to begin the task of settling finally how Germany shall bear the staggering burden of reparations for the world war.

A preliminary conference was held in the gold room of the Bank of France. After the experts discussed matters at luncheon, the following communique was issued:

"During the first unofficial meeting, matters of a practical nature regarding future meetings were discussed and will be definitely adopted at the first official meeting on Monday at 2 P. M. in the Hotel Astoria."

The French spokesman admitted that the important question of who will be chairman of the experts was discussed, but he refused to give details. It was understood that Owen D. Young, United States delegate, would take the position on the insistence of the other delegates.

It generally was predicted that, if a solution is reached after weeks or months of bargaining and discussion, Germany's burden would be around $10,000,000,000 to be paid over a fixed number of years in annual installments of perhaps $550,000,000. At any rate, it was not believed that the total would be as much as $12,000,000,000.

France, as indicated in an authorized outline given to the United Press probably will set her total demand at more than $8,000,000,000. That is what she will ask, but when the dickering is done, probably will accept considerably less. France receives 52 per cent of the total reparations.

England, as shown in the Balfour declaration, wants enough to pay her war debt to the United States, less what she received from France and other allies for their war debt to England. Italy will want enough to pay her debt to the United States, and Belgium will want about what she is now receiving under the $625,000,000 now being paid annually by Germany under the Dawes plan.

The Dawes plan payments are for an indefinite number of years, and probably will be scaled down under the new total, which will be distributed in small amounts over a fixed number of years to ease the annual burden on the present economic structure of Germany.

The luncheon of the experts ended at 2:45 P. M. Young informed the United Press that no announcement regarding the chairmanship would be made before the meeting Monday afternoon.

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Out of respect to Edwin Denby, former secretary of navy, who died in Detroit yesterday, Secretary of Navy Wilbur today ordered all ships, navy yards, and stations to fly their flags at half mast February 11, the day set for Denby's funeral.

Initiative and Referendum Bill Is Introduced

FOSSIL OF LARGE PRENGROID MAN IS FOUND IN TRANSVAAL

Cape Town, South Africa, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The Transvaal museum announced yesterday the discovery of the fossil of a gigantic prengroid man, living contemporaneously with a gigantic extinct buffalo fossil found at Springbok Flats, Transvaal. The broken condition of the skull and other bones indicated the man had been trampled by the buffalo which was 12 feet between horn tips. The discovery is considered anthropologically important.

DE TORAL READY TO FACE FIRING SQUAD IN MEXICO

TO BRING HIM DEATH FOR THE ASSASSINATION OF GENERAL OBREGON

SLENDER, YOUTHFUL CARTOONIST, SPENT THE NIGHT IN PRAYER

Mexico City, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Complete calm had settled over the soul of Jose Leon De Toral today as he prepared for the firing squad that at noon would bring him death for the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon.

The slender, youthful cartoonist had spent the night in prayer and had expressed anxiety as to the fate of his wife and new-born son—Miguel Humberto—whom he was allowed to see yesterday for the first time.

Yesterday, Toral wrote extensively and drew several cartoons. Among his drawings was one depicting himself as a corpse after being shot.

"I await death tranquilly," Toral wrote. "I have no hate for anyone and pardon for everyone for whom I pray God daily, asking salvation."

The execution will be Toral's "second death," he said. He considers that he already has suffered torture equal to death, in the course of his trial and appeals.

Mexico City, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Jose De Leon Toral, professing to the last that he was a martyr to the cause of religion, died his "second death" facing the rifles of a squad of soldiers.

Toral was executed in the Patio Alvaro Obregon at the federal penitentiary for the assassination last July 17 of Gen. Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico. He was shot at 12:35 P. M. C. S. T.

The prison was surrounded by 200 police, mounted and on foot, to prevent any possible demonstration. The crowd outside the walls was comparatively small, but thousands through the city waited for news of the execution.

Toral faced the firing squad at 12:33 P. M., and was shot less than two minutes later. He wore a light colored cap which he removed with his right hand just a second before the command to fire was given.

Then he placed his left hand over his heart to guide the shots. He cried "Viva," apparently intending to utter the rallying cry of the Catholic extremists, "Viva Cristo Rey," but the shots cut him off.

Capt. Jose Rodriguez Rabeila, commanding the firing squad, stepped forward and delivered the Coup De Grace with a pistol which had been given to him by Obregon.

A bullet from the pistol of the man he had assassinated penetrated Toral's brain and the state was satisfied that he was dead.

When Toral was led in for the execution, he was guided to a wall of the prison and stood with his back to it. A heap of sacks of sand stacked against the wall, was behind him.

The bullets tore a hole in the victim's body and he toppled forward on his face. The bullets passed through his back and opened the sacks, from which a stream of sand poured out and ran over the prostrate body.

Department of Justice Investigating Radio Corporation of America, to See If It's Trust

RADIO STATUS BIG TOPIC IN CONGRESS

DILL BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY BY SENATE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE

DEVELOPMENT IN CASE IS EXPECTED MONDAY IN WILMINGTON

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 9.—For a week the department of justice has been conducting a private investigation of the Radio Corporation of America combine to ascertain if a violation of the anti-trust laws has been committed, it was learned here today.

The department is contemplating two courses of action, first to warn the interested parties to revise their system or secondly to file suit in court to dissolve the alleged trust. Authorities in touch with the situation believe the first course will be followed in case the violations are disclosed.

Recently the department adopted a general policy to stay out of court if a trust dissolution could be worked out on terms agreeable to the government.

The private investigation has stirred much interest in congress where the senate interstate commerce committee has been briefly investigating the radio situation in connection with the Dill bill to extend the life of the federal radio commission another year. The bill was ordered favorably reported to the senate by the committee last night.

During this hearing, it develops now, Oswald F. Schuette, executive secretary of the Radio Protective Association, representing the independent radio groups, testified the department was understood to be contemplating prosecution of the Radio Corporation and its affiliated organizations.

Later it was learned the department has obtained 16,000 pages of testimony from an old federal trade investigation of the Radio Corporation, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Electric Company and the United Fruit Company.

In view of this news reaching congress, no action is expected to be taken on the pending Dill resolution directing the commission to turn over its evidence in the case to the department, and providing for a congressional investigation of the situation.

A development in the case is expected Monday in Wilmington where the United States district court will hear the independents' injunction restraining the Radio Corporation from requiring licenses to buy tubes from it.

The radio situation was the chief subject of discussion in congress, all other important matters having been dropped.

Inasmuch as but three weeks remain to the present session, the various committees have practically abandoned work.

HOOVER IN PILGRIMAGE TO EDISON HOME

PRESIDENT-ELECT TO VISIT THE AGED WIZARD OF AMERICAN INVENTION

STANDS AS CHIEF SYMBOL OF MODERN INDUSTRIAL AGE

By THOMAS L. STOKES (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—President-elect Hoover was to set sail today on a yachting cruise that takes him on a pilgrimage to the home of Thomas A. Edison, the aged wizard of American invention, who stands as one of the chief symbols of the modern industrial age in which Mr. Hoover is a leading figure.

Mr. Hoover, generally regarded as the spokesman for his efficiency era, will have opportunity to chat not only with the inventor, but also with two other outstanding exponents of the machine age, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, who will be present at Edison's eighty-second birthday celebration at Fort Myers Monday.

The president-elect and Mrs. Hoover will leave here today shortly after lunch, motor to trestle number two, down the coast, where Mr. Hoover caught his sail-fish, and there embark on Jeremiah Milbank's yacht Saunterer.

After his short visit, the president-elect and Mrs. Hoover will return to the Saunterer to begin a fishing expedition along the west coast with tarpon as the objective. The president-elect's return here depends upon how the fish bite but his present plan is to remain away until Thursday.

REP. KNUTSON IS HONORED BY VETERANS

St. Paul, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Representative Harold Knutson, St. Cloud, has been made an honorary member of North Bagley camp, United Spanish War Veterans, it was announced here today.

Rep. Knutson will be formally welcomed into the organization at the close of the present session of congress, it was said. The honor is in recognition of his service in pension matters.

The obligation of the veterans was taken by the congressman recently in Washington in the presence of national officers.

ASA KEYES IS COVICTED OF TAKING BRIBE

JURY OF 10 WOMEN AND 2 MEN GIVE VERDICT AT LOS ANGELES

ACT ALLEGED OCCURRED WHILE HE WAS DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—(UP)—The law today claimed one of its prosecutors—Asa Keyes—convicted by a jury of ten women and two men of accepting bribes while district attorney of Los Angeles county.

Keyes, prosecutor of William Edward Hickman and Almee Semple McPherson, was found guilty of accepting $165,000 to direct prosecution of the Julian Petroleum Corporation cases in such a manner that the defendants would be acquitted.

Ed Rosenberg, one of the acquitted Julian defendants, and Ben Getzoff, asserted "go-between" in the conspiracy also were found guilty with the former district attorney and face possible prison sentences of from one to fourteen years.

Keyes will remain in a tiny cell in the hall of justice building, five floors above the office where he once ruled as district attorney, until Monday when Superior Judge Edward I. Butler will pass sentence.

Keyes' counsel announced an appeal would be sought immediately which probably will gain the former prosecutor at least temporary freedom. Keyes also faces trial in March on another bribery charge which accuses him of participating in a conspiracy to give and accept bribes in the prosecution of A. L. Lasker, convicted of swindling.

Keyes might have been at liberty pending sentence had it not been for the meretricious character which his one time student, Byron Fitts, now district attorney, exhibited in the courtroom last night.

Fitts, crippled war veteran, who resigned as Keyes' chief deputy when the scandal of bribery in the Julian trials involved the district attorney's office, concurred in the prosecution demand that Keyes be refused bond.

The trial lasted six weeks and had offered California one of its most dramatic legal cases in recent history. Hundreds of investors in the Julian company lost $35,000,000.

MOTHER DIES; CAESARIAN OPERATION SAVES THE BABY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Mrs. Rose Peltier, of Cohoes, near here, died today in the agony of heart attacks, but a few minutes later, a physician performed a caesarian operation to bring into the world a normal six-pound boy.

Dr. A. M. Breault of Cohoes performed the operation and 20 minutes of resuscitation were required before the child was breathing normally.

Dr. Breault received a frantic call from the Peltier home where he found Mrs. Peltier on the kitchen floor suffering heart attacks. He worked with heart stimulants vainly and a priest administered extreme unction.

Just as Mrs. Peltier died Dr. Breault began his operation and in five minutes the baby was born.

Dr. Breault was handicapped as he had a few instruments and a kitchen as his operating room.

By HECTOR PERRIER (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Under the provisions of the bill introduced in the house by Rep. John J. McDonald, a referendum could be called upon petition of one-tenth of the voters by which:

Amendments could be voted in the state constitution.

Veto of the governor could be overridden.

Referendum could be called without action by the legislature as at present.

Legislation approved by the voters would not be repealable except by a two-thirds vote of the legislature. Other developments at the capitol included:

Governor Theodore Christianson signed a bill which would allow county auditors to extend the time limit for payment of taxes on school land purchases, and a resolution which memorializes President Coolidge, President-elect Hoover and congress to provide relief to Lake of the Woods county settlers whose property was damaged by overflow of the power dam at Kenora, Ont.

Rep. Lewis Herfindahl, Benson, and five others introduced a bill to provide for the nomination and election of all officials except presidential electors, senators and representatives to congress, without party designation.

By D. E. WHITNEY

The First Brass and Iron Worker in America

Records show that a certain Joseph Jenks at Lynn was the first worker in brass and iron on the North American continent. According to tradition, the first implement actually cast was an iron quart pot, in 1642, but, actually, many common tools and household articles were also made.

Our sympathetic helpfulness is born of sincerity, and the tactful manner in which we conduct our services is most reassuring to those who seek our assistance.

The true purpose of a budget

Every year you spend a large proportion of the money you get. So much for clothing. So much for shoes. So much for things to eat—for house furnishings, books and what not.

Here is the way to get the most for your money.

Keep a budget. Decide what you can afford to spend for each item, and hold yourself within this amount.

Then—to get the most for your budget money read advertisements carefully. The advertisements you read tell you what is newest and best. They give you the latest ideas and improvements.
They help you to get more from each dollar you have apportioned in your budget—and so live better and dress better with the same income.

The true purpose of a budget is to enable you to spend wisely—and only by careful reading of advertising can you hope to accomplish this result.

Read advertising regularly. It points the way to better living.

SECRETARY OF NAVY'S REPORT

The following excerpts from the annual report of the Secretary of Navy to the President are of interest. In his report Secretary Wilbur states the employment of forces during the past year have been under the standard operations of the Navy. These operations are the maintaining of a battle efficiency; protection of American interests in disturbed areas; and the cultivation of friendly relations with foreign peoples.

Active participation in the protection of American interests has had settings in foreign countries. The unsettled condition in China constitutes an ever present possibility of having to afford security to our citizens by defense and evacuation. During the drive of Nationalistic forces on Peking and Tientsin steps were taken, necessarily, to protect American interests.

The situation in Nicaragua, though greatly misunderstood by too large a percentage of Americans, has been the salvation of that country and American participation has been in full accord with both parties in the strife, with the exception of a small fraction under Sandino. All factions including Sandino, agreed to the Stimson Agreement in 1927, providing for a complete disarmament of the native forces and the establishment of the Guardia Nacional under the supervision of the United States.

Three naval vessels have been active throughout the year in the continuance of surveying the West Indies.

The aid extended ocean going vessels as well as coastwise ships by naval facilities has been materially increased throughout the year. The Navy operated fifty-five radio compass stations for the furnishing of bearings to all vessels. During the year 97,730 ships received a total of 224,965 bearings. Naval vessels constituted but eleven of the total ships receiving bearings.

Foreign radio traffic during a period of eight months transmitted 13,491,088 words. Of this amount one-third was for other government departments, affecting a saving of some $690,000. The radio act of 1927 authorized the use of naval radio for the press of the United States or that of foreign countries owned by citizens of the United States. Naval personnel handled on the average of 1400 words daily for the press. Ninety per cent of this traffic was west bound. Other radio aid extended to the country by the Navy includes a technical advisor to the Federal Radio Commission. A Naval Officer will represent the United States at the commission to meet at London to revise the international code of signals. This code is to be translated into seven languages.

The Naval Observatory in addition to furnishing time signals twice daily to all vessels publishes the following aids to sea going vessels and aviation concerns: Charts, sailing directions, notices to mariners, notices to aviators, daily memorandum, weekly bulletins and aviation memorandums.

The commissioning of the Lexington and Saratoga have trebled the aircraft carrying power and operating capacity of the Fleet. The efficiency of the Fleet has been even further extended by these vessels due to the added degree of mobility of air bases provided by these ships. These vessels permit the operation of aircraft in great numbers under sustained operating conditions at sea. They also permit greater opportunity for accepting and testing air tactics with the fleet and for developing sound types. Both vessels are able to accommodate all types of planes.

The awarding of the contract for the construction of two air ships to the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation of Akron, Ohio, is the first step toward supplying the Navy with the largest dirigibles in the world. The volume of these ships will be 6,500,000 cubic feet.

The Secretary stresses the curtailment of efficiency in sea forces due to the lack of sufficient personnel. Despite an authorized strength of 137,000 men, appropriations for pay permit the service only 84,000. During the year 17,000 recruits were received and trained.

WINTER BUILDING

This winter building now in progress has given Brainerd a great name for activity. The average small town slumps in the winter time, trade languishes, and people seem to hibernate.

But in Brainerd we find a large high school project under way and a store building started by Con O'Brien, to be followed shortly by other building projects.

This fact is commented on in other towns and cities. A Brainerd man recently said he never before heard so much talk about Brainerd. Every garage and business place visited in the course of his travels had some comment to make about the activities in Brainerd.

Coupled with building is also the tourist trade. Never before has the town stirred itself so far in advance of the season.

If you don't think Brainerd is a good town, just take the flyer and visit around and make a few comparisons. See what is going on in other towns and compare notes.

YOUR AUTOMOBILE LICENSE

A PROPOSAL to extend the time for paying automobile license taxes has been turned down by the Legislature. This means that there will be no grace beyond Feb. 15 and that those who delay making application beyond that date must pay penalties at the rate of 25 cents per day.

Besides the main office at the Capitol, the Secretary of State has deputies in a score of the larger cities, as well as at Brainerd. If you cannot visit one of these places and get your tags, application may be made by mail. Application blanks and rate books showing the tax on each make and model of car are in the hands of nearly all banks and garages in the smaller towns. If you have your old certificate and the necessary check, it is a simple matter to fill out the application and mail it. However, those who apply now may have to wait a while before they get their tags. Those who applied early have already adorned their cars with the neat looking black and white 1929 tags.

Feb. 15, by the way, is only a few days off, so if you have not applied for your tags, "Do it now!"

SOMETHING WRONG IN THIS

If a man saves his money and buys a house, he is taxed; if he wastes his money in extravagant living, he is not taxed.

None of our taxes encourage production, by the simple process of discouraging idleness, shiftlessness, in efficiency.

The devil himself could not do a neater job of hobbling the race.—Fort Atkinson Journal.

TRICKS "MASHER" INTO ARREST

Betty Seurth, pictured above, recently robbed by bandit of $1,600, was since approached on Chicago street by Jack Walton, who winked at her and received a "come hither" glance in return. She threw her arms about him, shouted for police, had him arrested and identified him as the bandit who robbed her.

OF HIMSELF

IS BROUGHT TO SUSSEX TO BE NURSED BACK TO VIGOR AND STRENGTH

LUXURIOUS AMBULANCE CARRIED HIM 63 MILES FROM LONDON

By H. L. PERCY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Bognor, Sussex, England, Feb. 9.—The king of England, who shadow of himself, was brought here today to be nursed back to vigor and strength.

The king was lifted carefully from the luxurious ambulance which had brought him the 63 miles from London over roads cleared of all traffic and carried into Craigwell House, where the queen waited with a smile to receive him.

Because of the care with which he was handled, it was understood that the king stood the journey well. He arrived at 1:24 P. M., just 39 minutes after the queen, who sped ahead in another car.

A strange procession came down the road from London to the Sussex coast. First was a police automobile, equipped with wireless, which made sure that no obstruction was in the road.

Four other cars were behind it. One, an ambulance, built like a limousine, carried the king. His chief nurse, Miss Purdie, sat beside him. Another car carried the king's doctors, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewitt, who have been with him almost constantly since his illness began last Nov. 21.

The trip took a little less than three hours. It was followed with eagerness by the British public, which for more than two months has been in distress and anxiety over the king's condition.

Women wept and even the eyes of some of the men were wet when the slight, emaciated figure of the king was brought from Buckingham Palace in London and George V. stoutly tried to reassure his subjects. The grey-bearded head raised slightly and a feeble hand waved to the crowd.

The weather was not auspicious when the king arrived at the Sussex resort, famed for its health-giving sunshine. A light rain began falling shortly after 1 P. M.

As he arrived, the royal standard broke out over Craigwell House, where it will float as long as the king is there.

Varieties of "Sardines"

Sardines from southern Europe are young pilchards; the Norwegian sardines are sprats and herrings, while off the coast of the United States and Canada both pilchards and herrings are turned into "sardines."

CHICAGO ALDERMAN AND 4 OF HIS AIDES TRICKED INTO MISTAKE

FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRING TO VIOLATE PROHIBITION LAW

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A Chicago alderman and four of his aides who were tricked into inviting two revenue agents to join them in their $5,000,000 bootlegging business, were found guilty by a jury in federal court today of conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

The alderman was Titus A. Haffa of the forty-third ward, described by the government as the "master mind" of the syndicate; Joe Bagheria, who supervised the making of the alcohol; Henry Murray, the alcohol cook; and Sam Simon and Edward Hugg, salesmen.

Under the terms of the verdict the defendants are liable to fines and sentences ranging up to five years.

Government testimony in the case revealed an amazing plot by which the alderman used his political influence to protect him from local authorities while he built up a liquor business with profits rivaling those of State Street department stores.

Haffa was said to have boasted that he was "friendly with the top" and could "fix" liquor cases through former United States Commissioner Henry C. Beidler and former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE married Guinn Holden, young and handsome Texas minister, shortly after Lillith, his first wife, died, leaving an infant Lillith. Irene, secretly in love with Guinn, had seen him practically snatched away by the beautiful blonde and coquettish Lillith, who had boasted of her ability to make Guinn propose to her. Instead of the love that Irene expected to enjoy to complete her happiness, she found always the unseen barrier of the dead Lillith haunting Guinn's mind and enthroned in his heart. He spoiled the child, granting her every wish and fancy. Even when Irene's child came he referred to her as "Lillith's little sister." This was Tina, who grows up a dark-eyed, lovely child, sweet and thoughtful, but conscious of her secondary position to the beautiful Lillith in her father's heart. Irene ponders this poignant problem that has persisted during the years of marriage to Holden. Even Ross and Lundy, the boys, and little Patricia, the youngest, were similarly regarded by their father. How to supplant this "golden ghost" of the glorious dead Lillith was made doubly difficult because of the grown-up Lillith, who had not only her mother's beauty, but greater intellect to support her selfish desires and strengthen her hold on her father's affection. Graduated from college, Lillith tells her father she wishes to study voice in New York. Tina, too, wants to pursue an art course. "Lillith is the older," the father would reply when Irene remonstrated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.

THE men went down the walk together, looking back at Lillith, surrounded by the young men on the lawn.

"Lillith won't languish long on the stem," commented Will.

"I'm not so sure, after all," said Irene thoughtfully. "She won't be one to marry just for the sake of romance. And she won't do it to take pity on any youth because of a sympathetic heart."

"No. She'll decide with cool judgment what she wishes, and then take it."

"What if it isn't to be had?" "It will be for her; if she makes up her mind, she'll make up the young man's mind, too."

Irene sighed. "I suppose so."

"Why sigh? I jested. Isn't it good to have someone in the family who always gets what she wants? Rare enough in this life." His own face sobered, as at some memory.

"I wish I could be as sure of Tina's getting what she wants." She indulged herself in speaking frankly to Will. She kept her troublous thoughts from her husband, because she didn't wish to disturb his peace.

"Why are you worrying about Tina?"

"When love comes to her it may bring heartache, even heartbreak. She's so unselfish in her impulse. She trusts everybody to be as generous of soul as she is. And they're not, they're not!" She spoke with sudden tenseness.

"Tina won't ever have the grief of knowing that she has wronged anybody else. And that I've come to believe, is the worst heart life can bring you," said Will soberly.

"But she loves so intensely and she trusts so completely. What if she falls in love with someone who's unworthy? Or someone who doesn't love her?"

He looked at her with concern, though he spoke lightly. "Where's your faith, preacher's wife? You're not usually pessimistic."

"I know, I know. But do so want my Tina to be happy?"

Oh, Tina must be happy, as she hadn't been! She mustn't know the disappointment that she had known; mustn't have to put up with compromise in love... feel herself second choice... suffer all her life the pang of knowing that someone else had her husband's first and lasting love... feel always that she was less loved than loving. Oh, Tina must have a perfect marriage! Surely life would grant that, to make up for...

"I want Tina to be happy, too," said Will. "She's as dear to me as if she were my own child. I'd take a lot of hard knocks myself to make sure that everything would be right for her." Then he paused. "You haven't had any reason to suppose she isn't contented?"

"Oh, no, she's all right. I can tell by her eyes when she isn't feeling well or isn't happy. Her eyes tell everything. Sometimes when she isn't feeling well she doesn't want to worry me, and so says she's all right—but I can look in her eyes and see everything."

"Yes, and Lillith's eyes tell only what she is willing for you to know."

"That's true. She can draw a veil over them and hide boredom or impatience or what she wishes." And she thought to herself, "And, yes, she can create an illusion of feeling that isn't there at all when she wishes. She is like an Indian magician, making a person fancy he sees poetry, love, sincerity, when nothing of it all is there—for him. She can call up mirages of emotion."

Yes, Lillith had the power of seeming to meet another's ideal; she could arouse deep emotion in others while she remained untroubled or with only an intellectual amusement at such play of passion. Already at nineteen, she was a skilled enchantress.

"Tina is proud of her sister's conquests—stands by with sympathy for the suitors when they are hurt by Lillith's coldness. Not the least jealous," Irene told him.

Yes, Tina stood by to give first aid of sympathy and consolation to the other's wounded admirers, not thinking of herself. Each young egoist turned to the younger sister to ask why Lillith was so cold to him. Did she think Lillith ever cared for anybody, was there any hope for him?

It was a marvel to see the expertness with which Lillith kept each admirer in subjection, seemingly with no effort, emotionless as a flower herself, save for her faint, ironic smile. She skimmed the light surface of life, aware of its depths but indifferent to them, careless of the intensity of feeling she aroused in others. Tina was all sympathy for the distraught youths who were so hopelessly in love with Lillith.

Tina had her young friends, too, but she lacked the magic that was her sister's. Her young friends were merely friends, as yet, for at seventeen she seemed not yet a woman in her thoughts. She had developed and grown prettier in the last year or two, but she wasn't the born sorceress that Lillith was. Lillith was well named! The mother, sighing, wished Tina had a touch of her power. It meant so much to a girl in a young state of society and happiness might be decided by the fact that a certain young man liked her eyes or hair, by the fact that her eyes were brown or blue, that her lips had a certain curve...

Tina was a pretty girl herself, with her own attractiveness, yet not mature enough to be quite grown up. Her mother studied her too, as she stood with the group on the lawn. Her face was flushed and eager, as if she were on tip-toe of expectancy for life, ready to rush with joyous spontaneity to what it offered her. Her head with its bobbed hair, wavy and intractable, was more like an ardent young boy's than a girl's, her nose had a few amber freckles on it because she would go without her hat in the absurd fashion of her day. "Darling, I love the sun," she would say, when her mother besought her to think of her complexion. Her gay little upturned nose was a saucy challenge, while her eyes, her chief beauty, were dusky with dreams, with a dawn-like innocence, frank and unafraid. "I must be going," said Will, breaking into her thoughts. She came back with a start to a realization of the present.

Seeing him ready to leave, Tina tripped forward to slip her hand into his, and to give him the special smile she always had for him. "Good-by, Doctor Will."

"It's good to have you back," he told her. "Town's been dull without you."

"I'm going to enjoy this Summer at home. I've been away at Summer school the last two, you know. So a rest and play will seem fine."

They drifted down to the gate together.

Roger Devereux came up to sit for a moment on the porch by Irene. Roger was the son of a prominent lawyer in Dallas, and had just taken his law degree from Baylor. It was clear he was in love with Lillith, but she treated him with smiling negligence.

"Why is it Lillith can produce the effect of electricity on you, when she doesn't give a darn herself?" he burst out.

"I don't know," was Irene's honest reply.

"She's like champagne," he said ruefully. "And Tina's like a drink of cold spring water."

"People don't usually get excited over a drink of water," Tina's mother spoke with some inward bitterness. She'd like the right people to get excited over Tina!

"Not when you're young, I reckon. You'd rather have it when you're old, though."

"But it's the young who make life's choices."

Oh, what if the clear spring water were always to be ignored for heady champagne?

She looked at the young man beside her. She'd be glad to see Tina marry him, if only they should happen to care for each other. He was handsome, a little like Guinn in his youth, with his brown eyes and dark hair, his erect carriage and manly build. He was clever, he had ambition, and he had money enough.

But his restless young eyes followed only Lillith, she had noted, clouding when she smiled on anyone else, shining with gratitude when she gave him even a careless glance.

Did Lillith care for him? Or would she marry him without loving him? His father was wealthy and would perhaps be Senator soon. Lillith would be ambitious in her choice of a husband, that was certain. Perhaps she hadn't met anyone yet who could satisfy her demands. And she would make her own decision.

Well, after she was married, then Tina could have her chance. Lillith flicked a glance at Roger and he bounded down the steps to join her.

Sheba came to the door and stood with sullen lip and mien. "Look lass Lillith would turn her hand to help, when she got the house packed with her company! How I'm going to freeze the ice cream when I got to do everything else?"

"I'll be back in a moment, Sheba, and help you. And I'll ask Miss Tina to set the table." "I don't want Miss Tina setting the table for Miss Lily's beau company!" she retorted.

"Well, I'll do it then," she said to sooth her.

SECRETARY OF NAVY'S REPORT

THE following excerpts from the annual report of the Secretary of Navy to the President are of interest. In his report Secretary Wilbur states the employment of forces during the past year have been under the standard operations of the Navy. These operations are the maintaining of a battle efficiency; protection of American interests in disturbed areas; and the cultivation of friendly relations with foreign peoples.

Active participation in the protection of American interests has had settings in foreign countries. The unsettled condition in China constitutes an ever present possibility of having to afford security to our citizens by defense and evacuation. During the drive of Nationalistic forces on Peking and Tientsin steps were taken, necessarily, to protect American interests.

The situation in Nicaragua, though greatly misunderstood by too large a percentage of Americans, has been the salvation of that country and American participation has been in full accord with both parties in the strife, with the exception of a small fraction under Sandino. All factions including Sandino, agreed to the Stimson Agreement in 1927, providing for a complete disarmament of the native forces and the establishment of the Guardia Nacional under the supervision of the United States.

Three naval vessels have been active throughout the year in the continuance of surveying the West Indies.

The aid extended ocean going vessels as well as coastwise ships by naval facilities has been materially increased throughout the year. The Navy operated fifty-five radio compass stations for the furnishing of bearings to all vessels. During the year 97,730 ships received a total of 224,965 bearings. Naval vessels constituted but eleven of the total ships receiving bearings.

Foreign radio traffic during a period of eight months transmitted 13,491,088 words. Of this amount one-third was for other government departments, affecting a saving of some $690,000. The radio act of 1927 authorized the use of naval radio for the press of the United States or that of foreign countries owned by citizens of the United States. Naval personnel handled on the average of 1400 words daily for the press. Ninety per cent of this traffic was west bound. Other radio aid extended to the country by the Navy includes a technical advisor to the Federal Radio Commission. A Naval Officer will represent the United States at the commission to meet at London to revise the international code of signals. This code is to be translated into seven languages.

The Naval Observatory in addition to furnishing time signals twice daily to all vessels publishes the following aids to sea going vessels and aviation concerns: Charts, sailing directions, notices to mariners, notices to aviators, daily memorandum, weekly bulletins and aviation memorandums.

The commissioning of the Lexington and Saratoga have trebled the aircraft carrying power and operating capacity of the Fleet. The efficiency of the Fleet has been even further extended by these vessels due to the added degree of mobility of air bases provided by these ships. These vessels permit the operation of aircraft in great numbers under sustained operating conditions at sea. They also permit greater opportunity for accepting and testing air tactics with the fleet and for developing sound types. Both vessels are able to accommodate all types of planes.

The awarding of the contract for the construction of two air ships to the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation of Akron, Ohio, is the first step toward supplying the Navy with the largest dirigibles in the world. The volume of these ships will be 6,500,000 cubic feet.

The Secretary stresses the curtailment of efficiency in sea forces due to the lack of sufficient personnel. Despite an authorized strength of 137,000 men, appropriations for pay permit the service only 84,000. During the year 17,000 recruits were received and trained.

WINTER BUILDING

This winter building now in progress has given Brainerd a great name for activity. The average small town slumps in the winter time, trade languishes, and people seem to hibernate.

But in Brainerd we find a large high school project under way and a store building started by Con O'Brien, to be followed shortly by other building projects.

This fact is commented on in other towns and cities. A Brainerd man recently said he never before heard so much talk about Brainerd. Every garage and business place visited in the course of his travels had some comment to make about the activities in Brainerd.

Coupled with building is also the tourist trade. Never before has the town stirred itself so far in advance of the season.

If you don't think Brainerd is a good town, just take the flyver and visit around and make a few comparisons. See what is going on in other towns and compare notes.

YOUR AUTOMOBILE LICENSE

A PROPOSAL to extend the time for paying automobile license taxes has been turned down by the Legislature. This means that there will be no grace beyond Feb. 15 and that those who delay making application beyond that date must pay penalties at the rate of 25 cents per day.

Besides the main office at the Capitol, the Secretary of State has deputies in a score of the larger cities, as well as at Brainerd. If you cannot visit one of these places and get your tags, application may be made by mail. Application blanks and rate books showing the tax on each make and model of car are in the hands of nearly all banks and garages in the smaller towns. If you have your old certificate and the necessary check, it is a simple matter to fill out the application and mail it. However, those who apply now may have to wait a while before they get their tags. Those who applied early have already adorned their cars with the neat looking black and white 1929 tags.

Feb. 15, by the way, is only a few days off, so if you have not applied for your tags, "Do it now!"

SOMETHING WRONG IN THIS

If a man saves his money and buys a house, he is taxed; if he wastes his money in extravagant living, he is not taxed.

None of our taxes encourage production, by the simple process of discouraging idleness, shiftlessness, in efficiency.

The devil himself could not do a neater job of hobbling the race.—Fort Atkinson Journal.

ENGLISH KING WAN SHADOW OF HIMSELF

IS BROUGHT TO SUSSEX TO BE NURSED BACK TO VIGOR AND STRENGTH
LUXURIOUS AMBULANCE CARRIED HIM 63 MILES FROM LONDON

By H. L. PERCY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Bognor, Sussex, England, Feb. 9.—The king of England, who shadow of himself, was brought here today to be nursed back to vigor and strength.

The king was lifted carefully from the luxurious ambulance which had brought him the 63 miles from London over roads cleared of all traffic and carried into Craigwell House, where the queen waited with a smile to receive him.

Because of the care with which he was handled, it was understood that the king stood the journey well. He arrived at 1:24 P. M., just 30 minutes after the queen, who sped ahead in another car.

A strange procession came down the road from London to the Sussex coast. First was a police automobile, equipped with wireless, which made sure that no obstruction was in the road.

Four other cars were behind it. One, an ambulance, built like a limousine, carried the king. His chief nurse, Miss Purdie, sat beside him.

Another car carried the king's doctors, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, who have been with him almost constantly since his illness began last Nov. 21.

The trip took a little less than three hours. It was followed with eagerness by the British public, which for more than two months has been in distress and anxiety over the king's condition.

Women wept and even the eyes of some of the men were wet when the slight, emaciated figure of the king was brought from Buckingham Palace in London and George V. stoutly tried to reassure his subjects. The grey-bearded head raised slightly and a feeble hand waved to the crowd.

The weather was not auspicious when the king arrived at the Sussex resort, famed for its health-giving sunshine. A light rain began falling shortly after 1 P. M.

As he arrived, the royal standard broke out over Craigwell House, where it will float as long as the king is there.

Varieties of "Sardines"

Sardines from southern Europe are young pilchards; the Norwegian sardines are sprats and herrings, while off the coast of the United States and Canada both pilchards and herrings are turned into "sardines."

ASKED REVENUE AGENTS TO JOIN IN BOOTLEGGING

CHICAGO ALDERMAN AND 4 OF HIS AIDES TRICKED INTO MISTAKE
FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRING TO VIOLATE PROHIBITION LAW

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—A Chicago alderman and four of his aides who were tricked into inviting two revenue agents to join them in their $5,000,000 bootlegging business, were found guilty by a jury in federal court today of conspiring to violate the prohibition law.

The alderman was Titus A. Haffa of the forty-third ward, described by the government as the "master mind" of the syndicate; Joe Bagheria, who supervised the making of the alcohol; Henry Murray, the alcohol cooker; and Sam Simon and Edward Hugg, salesmen.

Under the terms of the verdict the defendants are liable to fines and sentences ranging up to five years.

Government testimony in the case revealed an amazing plot by which the alderman used his political influence to protect him from local authorities while he built up a liquor business with profits rivaling those of State Street department stores.

Haffa was said to have boasted that he was "friendly with the top" and could "fix" liquor cases through former United States Commissioner Henry C. Bortler and former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

IRENE ROBELINE married Guinn Holden, young and handsome Texas minister, shortly after Lilith, his first wife, died, leaving an infant Lilith. Irene, secretly in love with Guinn, had seen him practically snatched away by the beautiful blonde and coquettish Lilith, who had boasted of her ability to make Guinn propose to her. Instead of the love that Irene expected to enjoy to complete her happiness, she found always the unseen barrier of the dead Lilith haunting Holden's mind and enthroned in his heart. He spoiled the child, granting her every wish and fancy. Even when Irene's child came he referred to her as "Lilith's little sister." This was Tina, who grows up a dark-eyed, lovely child, sweet and thoughtful, but conscious of her secondary position to the beautiful Lilith in her father's heart. Irene ponders this poignant problem that has persisted during the years of marriage to Holden. Ever Ross and Lundy, the boys, and little Patricia, the youngest, were similarly regarded by their father. How to supplant this "golden ghost" of the glorious dead Lilith was made doubly difficult because of the grown-up Lilith, who had not only her mother's beauty, but greater intellect to support her selfish desires and strengthen her hold on her father's affection. Graduated from college, Lilith tells her father she wishes to study voice in New York. Tina, too, wants to pursue an art course. "Lilith is the older," the father would reply when Irene remonstrated.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.

THE men went down the walk together, looking back at Lilith, surrounded by the young men on the lawn.

"Lilith won't languish long on the stem," commented Will.

"I'm not so sure, after all," said Irene thoughtfully. "She won't be one to marry just for the sake of romance. And she won't do it to take pity on any youth because of a sympathetic heart."

"No. She'll decide with cool judgment what she wishes, and then take it."

"What if it isn't to be had?"

"It will be for her; if she makes up her mind, she'll make up the young man's mind, too."

Irene sighed. "I suppose so."

"Why sigh? He jested. 'Isn't it good to have someone in the family who always gets what she wants? Rare enough in this life.' His own face sobered, as at some memory."

"I wish I could be as sure of Tina's getting what she wants. She's so unselfish in her impulse. She trusts everybody to be as generous of soul as she is. And they're not, they're not!" She spoke with sudden tenseness.

"Tina won't ever have the grief of knowing that she has wronged anybody else. And that, I've come to believe, is the worst hurt life can bring you," said Will soberly.

"But she loves so intensely and she trusts so completely. What if she falls in love with someone who's unworthy? Or someone who doesn't love her?"

He looked at her with concern, though he spoke lightly. "Where's your faith, preacher's wife? You're not usually pessimistic."

"I know. I know. But I do so want my Tina to be happy!"

Oh, Tina must be happy, as she hadn't been! She mustn't know the disappointment that she had known; mustn't have to put up with compromise in love... feel herself second choice... suffer all her life the pang of knowing that someone else had her husband's first and lasting love.

But she loves so intensely and she trusts so completely. What if she falls in love with someone who's unworthy? Or someone who doesn't love her?

when she isn't feeling well she doesn't want to worry me, and so says she's all right—but I can look in her eyes and see everything."

"Yes, and Lilith's eyes tell only what she is willing for you to know."

"That's true. She can draw a veil over them and hide boredom or impatience or what she wishes."

She thought to herself, "And, yes, she can create an illusion of feeling that isn't there at all when she wishes. She is like an Indian magician, making a person fancy he sees poetry, love, sincerity, when nothing of it all is there—" for him. She can call up mirages of emotion."

Yes, Lilith had the power of seeming to meet another's ideal; she could arouse deep emotion in others while she remained untroubled or with only an intellectual amusement at such play of passion. Already at nineteen, she was a skilled enchantress.

"Tina is proud of her sister's conquests—stands by with sympathy for the victors when they are hurt by Lilith's coldness. Not the least jealous," Irene told him.

Yes, Tina stood by to give first aid of sympathy and consolation to the other's wounded admirers, not thinking of herself. Each young egotist turned to the younger sister to ask why Lilith was so cold to him. Did she think Lilith ever cared for anybody, was there any hope for him?

It was a marvel to see the expertness with which Lilith kept each admirer in subjection, seemingly with no effort, emotionless as a flower herself, save for her faint, ironic amusement. She skimmed the light surface of life, aware of its depths but indifferent to them, careless of the intensity of feeling she aroused in others.

Tina was all sympathy for the distraught youths who were so hopelessly in love with Lilith.

Tina had her young friends, too, but she lacked the magic that was her sister's. Her young friends were merely friends, as yet, for at seventeen she seemed not yet a woman in her thoughts. She had developed and grown prettier in the last year or two, but she wasn't the born sorceress that Lilith was. Lilith was well named!

The mother, sighing, wished Tina a touch of her power. It had meant so much to a girl in a state of society where a young person's whole life and happiness might be decided by the fact that her eyes or hair, by the fact that her lips had a certain curve...

Tina was a pretty girl herself, with her own attractiveness, yet not mature enough to be quite grown up. Her mother studied her too, as she stood with the group on the lawn. Her face was flushed and eager, as if she were on tip-toe of expectancy for life, ready to rush with joyous spontaneity to what it offered her. Her head with its bobbed hair, wavy and in## tractable, was more like an ardent young boy's than a girl's, her nose had a few amber freckles on it because she would go without her hat in the absurd fashion of her day. "Darling, I love the sun," she would say, when her mother besought her to think of her complexion. Her gay little upturned nose was a saucy challenge, while her eyes, her chief beauty, were dusky with dreams, with a dawn-like innocence, frank and unafraid.

"I must be going," said Will, breaking into her thoughts. She came back with a start to a realization of the present.

Seeing him ready to leave, Tina tripped forward to slip her hand into his, and to give him the special smile she always had for him. "Good-by, Doctor Will."

"It's good to have you back," he told her. "Town's been dull without you."

"I'm going to enjoy this Summer at home. I've been away at summer school the last two, you know. A rest and play will seem fine."

They drifted down to the gate together.

Roger Devereux came up to sit for a moment on the porch by Irene. Roger was the son of a prominent lawyer in Dallas, and had just taken his law degree from Baylor.

It was clear he was in love with Lilith, but she treated him with smiling negligence.

"Why is it Lilith can produce the effect of electricity on you, when she doesn't give a darn herself," he burst out.

"I don't know," was Irene's honest reply.

"She's like champagne," he said ruefully. "And Tina's like a drink of cold spring water."

"People don't usually get excited over a drink of water," Tina's mother spoke with some inward bitterness. She'd like the right, people to get excited over Tina!

"Not when you're young, I reckon. You'd rather have it when you're old, though."

"But it's the young who make life's choices."

Oh, what if the clear spring water were always to be ignored for heady champagne?

She looked at the young man beside her. She'd be glad to see Tina marry him, if only they should happen to care for each other. He was handsome, a little like Guinn in his youth, with his brown eyes and dark hair, his erect carriage and manly build. He was clever, he had ambition, and he had money enough.

But his restless young eyes followed only Lilith, she had noted, clouding when she smiled on anyone else, shining with gratitude when she gave him even a careless glance.

Did Lilith care for him? Or would she marry him without loving him? His father was wealthy and would perhaps be Senator soon. Lilith would be ambitious in her choice of a husband, that was certain. Perhaps she hadn't met anyone yet who could satisfy her demands. And she would make her own decision.

Well, after she was married, then Tina could have her chance. Lilith flicked a glance at Roger and he bounded down the steps to join her.

Sheba came to the door and stood with sullen lip and mien. "Look! Miss Lily would turn her hand to help when she got the house packed with her company! How I'm going to freeze the ice cream when I got to do everything else!"

"COWS IN BRAINERD"

It seems strange Brainerd would allow cows within its city limits. The many dwellings of that nature in various parts of the town is indeed surprising. Their appearance is anything but beautifying, also inviting very unhealthful conditions, being ideal homes for such pests as rats, mice, etc., uncleanness, say nothing of the obnoxious stenches.

I know of a certain place where for a short time, even pigs were kept—cows being the first offense. And all this within two blocks of the high school.

BRAINERD HIGH SCORES DECISIVE VICTORY

FOREIGN STARS TO RACE TONIGHT

CHALKS UP 29 TO 15

GAME LAST EVENING

GEIST AND HAUTALA CONTRI-

TEAM SHOWS SIMILAR SPIRIT AS DISPLAYED IN THE GAME AGAINST BEMIDJI

The Brainerd high school team lived up to the confidence this city has in them by taking a decisive victory from Pine River last evening by 29 to 15.

That confidence came last Tuesday evening when the Brainerd team defeated the Bemidji high on the latter's floor by the score of 16 to 15, chalking up the first victory that the Brainerd boys have scored on the Bemidji crew on their home floor.

Last night's game was a replica of the Bemidji game in consideration of the Brainerd team's confidence, spirit and team co-operation.

Pine River started out with a rush in the first quarter and had Brainerd 6 to 2. The floor was very slippery, causing the locals to take time out to put resin on their shoes. After that, the game changed and the Brainerd team tied the score and gradually took the lead, making the score 16 to 6 at the close of the half. In the second quarter rampage, Geist sank three long baskets with Fuller adding two long ones. Hautala and Paine each sank one on the follow-up shots.

In the second half, Hautala kept Brainerd in the running with three baskets and Geist and Fuller each added one. Substitutes, Schuety and Halvorson, came in to sink one each.

The defense functioned better again last night, forcing Pine River to attempt long shots.

However, the Pine River offense was not of a very flashy type.

The Brainerd offense worked well in team co-operation and follow-up shots, but accuracy in passing is still the missing element. This can only be overcome by practice on a standard gymnasium, which, of course, Brainerd lacks this year.

The box score, which includes personal fouls, follows:

N. E. TIGERS BEAT PEQUOT SECONDS

BRAINERD TEAM OVERWHELMS
PEQUOT, 37-6, IN PRELIMINARY GAME

The Northeast Tigers, one of the junior teams of the Y. M. C. A. which has an enviable record as a basketball team, journeyed to Pequot last night and in the first game of a double-header at the Pequot high school defeated the Pequot juniors 37-6. However the game was not as one-sided as the score would indicate, the score being 4-4 at the end of the first half.

In the second half, Howard Storm and Vernon Marshall showed their skill. Storm making ten points for the Tigers and Marshall eighteen.

Other players on the team were Lyle Mayo, captain; Dave Templeton and Kenneth Clawsen.

Pequot's first team won over the Pillager high school team.

The Tigers will play Pequot a return game at Brainerd in the near future.

N. Y. GIANTS ARE GIVEN A KEEN ANALYSIS

McGRAW MEN LOOK DANGEROUSLY
LIKE CHAMPIONSHIP
OUTFIT

LITTLE CHANGES HERE AND
THERE AND THEY WILL BE READY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 9.—John J. McGraw's 1929 edition of the New York Giants looks dangerously like a championship outfit.

Just a change here and a shift there and the Giants will be ready to begin the quest of the pennant they threatened to win last season until the final week of the race.

Manager McGraw will not have to try the numerous experiments which handicapped the Giants last season. Although the Giants have picked up several promising recruits there will be few changes in the make-up of the club.

The infield is settled, except at second base, where Andy Cohen and Andy Reese will compete for the regular place. The solution may be that Cohen and Reese will alternate against left and right-handed pitching, respectively. Terry at first, Jackson at short and Lindstrom at third will complete the infield.

Two Toledo recruits, Pat Crawford and Baxter Jordan, may win utility berths as infielders. Crawford, a third baseman, batted .347 and Jordan, a first baseman, batted .378. Eddie Marshall, shortstop from Beaumont, is hailed as a flashy fielder, but a weak hitter.

Four new outfielders have been added to the Giants. Fred Leach, acquired in a trade with the Phillies, will play left. Tony Kaufmann, a former pitcher with the Cubs who batted .386 for Rochester, will alternate with Melvin Ott, the 29-year-old star, in right field. Chick Fullis, a ball hawk from Toledo, and Art Veltman, the former Giants' bat boy, are the other newcomers. Veltman batted .333 for Springfield last season and Fullis batted .275.

Ed Roush, who is said to have regained his health, and Jimmy Welsh, who threatens to blossom into a star under McGraw's tutelage, will battle for center field.

The catching staff will be stronger with the addition of Ray Schalk, signed as McGraw's first lieutenant, but who expects to catch quite a few games. Frank Hogan will be first string catcher with Bob O'Farrell and Jack Cummings as assistants. Larry Benton, Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Genewich and Carl Hubbell, the brilliant young southpaw who joined the Giants from Beaumont in mid-season last year, will form the nucleus of the pitching staff. Carl Mays, the submarine ball pitcher, will attempt a comeback after a winter in Florida.

Garland Buckeye, the 245-pound southpaw formerly with the Cleveland Indians, has been recalled from Toledo and Jack Scott, veteran right-hander who was rescued from Toledo late last season, will try for regular berths.

Three outstanding rookies have been acquired in Harry Kelly, who won 21 games and lost 10 for Mem-

WILLIAMS, NURMI, EDVIN WIDE ON THE BOARDS TONIGHT

CARRY COLORS OF CANADA, FIN-LAND AND SWEDEN AT GARDEN

ANNUAL MILLROSE A. A. GAMES
HAVE WELL FILLED
PROGRAM

New York, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The great triumvirate of foreign track stars—Percy Williams, Paavo Nurmi and Edvin Wide—will carry the colors of Canada, Finland and Sweden onto the boards at Madison Square Garden in the annual Millrose A. A. games tonight.

Williams, Canada's greatest sprinter, will run for the Maple Leaf in the international 60 yard dash. Nurmi will represent Finland in the Rodman Wanamaker mile, which he won in 1925, and Wide will run in the international two-mile mile-and-out event.

In addition to Williams, Canada will be represented by a number of track stars who may give the Americans stern battles before the last of the 34 events on the program is completed.

Williams' hardest opponent in the first heat of the international 60 yard dash is expected to be Ed Hamm of Georgia Tech, who accompanied the United States Olympic team as a broad jumper.

Nurmi, sensation of the meet four years ago, probably will find Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., his rival in the Rodman Wanamaker mile.

Wide will be called upon for all the speed he possesses in the two mile mile-and-out event.

In this race the trailing member of the field is dropped from competition at the end of each lap, with the exception of the first, until only a limited number remain to fight for first place.

phis; Warren Ogden, who won 21 games and lost 10 for Buffalo; and H. E. Pyle, who won 15 games and lost 11 for Chattanooga.

Bill Walker, the former Denver southpaw who cost the Giants $30,000 a year ago but was handicapped by illness last season, is said to have recovered from his illness. Dutch Henry, another southpaw, who was on the ineligible list most of last season, may regain his form. Henry Boney, a former Florida collegian, and Tiny Chaplain, both right-handers, who were given tryouts last season, will be back.

Catchers—Hogan, O'Farrell, Cummings, Schalk (coach). Pitchers—Benton, Fitzsimmons, Genewich, Hubbell, Mays, Walker, Henry, Ogden, Kelly.

Infield—Terry at first, Cohen or Reese at second, Jackson at short, Lindstrom at third. Jordan, Crawford, reserves.

Outfield—Leach in left, Roush or Welch in center, Ott or Kaufmann in right. Fullis or Veltman, reserve.

BACK IN RANKS
OF AMATEURS

Boston, Feb. 9.—(UP)—William T. Tilden is back in the ranks of the amateur tennis player, ready to carry the Stars and Stripes in quest of the Davis cup next summer.

The spectacular fight which he carried on with the United States Lawn Tennis association since his suspension last summer for alleged infractions of the player-writer clause of the amateur rules, came to a dramatic close last night when the executive committee of that body, by an almost unanimous vote, agreed to his reinstatement.

Twenty-one members of the committee were present at the meeting here and of that number 20 voted in favor of the former national champion. The remaining member did not vote.

BIG TEN'S CAGERS FACING UPSETS TONIGHT

POSSIBILITY OF CHANGE IN LEADERSHIP IS FACING PLAYERS

OHIO-MICHIGAN GAME IS HEAD-
LINER OF CON-FERENCE

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The possibility of a change in leadership will face Big Ten basketball enthusiasts, when six teams swing into action tonight.

Headlining the night's games is the Ohio-Michigan encounter at Ann Arbor. At present the Wolverines are out in front with four games won and none lost but should Ohio win tonight the Michigan team would drop to second place.

Purdue and Wisconsin are tied for second honors with five games won and one lost and since both of them are idle tonight, a Michigan loss would send the two into a tie for the leadership.

However, Michigan, on the basis of past performances, and with the advantage of playing on its home floor, figure to win from the Buckeyes.

Iowa and Indiana meet in another interesting battle, tonight. The Iowans still are in the running for the championship with three victories and two losses and with the home-floor advantage expect to win from the Indians.

The Bloomington boys, without a doubt, have the power and if they can get it under way, Iowa may find it hard to continue in the running for the conference championship.

The other game of the night finds Illinois playing at Chicago. The Illini have not won a basketball game at Chicago since 1917 and the Maroons have not won a conference game in six starts this year so some kind of a record will be broken.

TEX RICKARD'S VENTURES AL-WAYS PLENTIFULLY
SPRINKLED

AND MIAMI BEACH GIVES INDI-CATION OF BEING IN SAME
CATEGORY

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—Tex Rickard's best big fight spectacles always were preceded by plenty of legal battles, injunctions and what-nots, and the one the late promoter started down here at Miami Beach gives no indication of promising an exception.

Accordingly, Jack Dempsey, the new promoter, is hailing Young Stribling into court today to settle with writs and injunctions the question of whether the Georgia contender for the heavyweight title is or is not to refrain from riding in airplanes and on motorcycles until after the fight with Jack Sharkey February 27.

The whole business is just so much ballyhoo. Young Stribling is no more interested in breaking his neck than the promoters. But Tex always used to say that these legal squabbles did not harm and kept the old publicity pot boiling.

The injunctions which preceded the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Philadelphia and later on the one at Chicago were of a somewhat more serious nature. They were brought by outsiders, for one thing.

Dempsey has demanded an injunction to restrain Stribling from flying and motorcycling on the ground that a lot of money is wrapped up in the Georgian, and he must be delivered intact at the ringside, if no further, on the night of the 27th.

Four new outfielders have been added to the Giants. Fred Leach, acquired in a trade with the Phillies, will play left. Tony Kaufmann, a former pitcher with the Cubs who batted .386 for Rochester, will alternate with Melvin Ott, the 29-year-old star, in right field. Chick Fullis, a ball hawk from Toledo, and Art Veltman, the former Giants' bat boy, are the other newcomers. Veltman batted .333 for Springfield last season and Fullis batted .275.

Ed Roush, who is said to have regained his health, and Jimmy Welsh, who threatens to blossom into a star under McGraw's tutelage, will battle for center field.

The catching staff will be stronger with the addition of Ray Schalk, signed as McGraw's first lieutenant, but who expects to catch quite a few games. Frank Hogan will be first string catcher with Bob O'Farrell and Jack Cummings as assistants. Larry Benton, Fred Fitzsimmons, Joe Genewich and Carl Hubbell, the brilliant young southpaw who joined the Giants from Beaumont in mid season last year, will form the nucleus of the pitching staff. Carl Mays, the submarine ball pitcher, will attempt a comeback after a winter in Florida.

Garland Buckeye, the 245-pound southpaw formerly with the Cleveland Indians, has been recalled from Toledo and Jack Scott, veteran right-hander who was rescued from Toledo late last season, will try for regular berths.

Three outstanding rookies have been acquired in Harry Kelly, who won 21 games and lost 10 for Mem-

ANNUAL MILLROSE A. A. GAMES
HAVE WELL FILLED PROGRAM

New York, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The great triumvirate of foreign track stars—Percy Williams, Paavo Nurmi and Edvin Wide—will carry the colors of Canada, Finland and Sweden onto the boards at Madison Square Garden in the annual Millrose A. A. games tonight.

Williams, Canada's greatest sprinter, will run for the Maple Leaf in the international 60 yard dash. Nurmi will represent Finland in the Rodman Wanamaker mile, which he won in 1925, and Wide will run in the international two-mile miss-and-out event.

In addition to Williams, Canada will be represented by a number of track stars who may give the Americans stern battles before the last of the 34 events on the program is completed.

Williams' hardest opponent in the first heat of the international 60 yard dash is expected to be Ed Hamm of Georgia Tech, who accompanied the United States Olympic team as a broad jumper.

Nurmi, sensation of the meet four years ago, probably will find Ray Conger of the Illinois A. C., his rival in the Rodman Wanamaker mile.

Wide will be called upon for all the speed he possesses in the two mile miss-and-out event.

In this race the trailing member of the field is dropped from competition at the end of each lap, with the exception of the first, until only a limited number remain to fight for first place.

Bill Walker, the former Denver southpaw who cost the Giants $30,000 a year ago but was handicapped by illness last season, is said to have recovered from his illness. Dutch Henry, another southpaw, who was on the ineligible list most of last season, may regain his form. Henry Boney, a former Florida collegian, and Tiny Chaplain, both right-handers, who were given tryouts last season, will be back.

BACK IN RANKS
OF AMATEURS

Boston, Feb. 9.—(UP)—William T. Tilden is back in the ranks of the amateur tennis player, ready to carry the Stars and Stripes in quest of the Davis cup next summer.

The spectacular fight which he carried on with the United States Lawn Tennis association since his suspension last summer for alleged infractions of the player-writer clause of the amateur rules, came to a dramatic close last night when the executive committee of that body, by an almost unanimous vote, agreed to his reinstatement.

Twenty-one members of the committee were present at the meeting here and of that number 20 voted in favor of the former national champion. The remaining member did not vote.

LINER OF CON-FERENCE

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Feb. 9.—(UP)—The possibility of a change in leadership will face Big Ten basketball enthusiasts, when six teams swing into action tonight.

Headlining the night's games is the Ohio-Michigan encounter at Ana Arbor. At present the Wolverines are out in front with four games won and none lost but should Ohio win tonight the Michigan team would drop into second place.

Purdue and Wisconsin are tied for second honors with five games won and one lost and since both of them are idle tonight, a Michigan loss would send the two into a tie for the leadership.

However, Michigan, on the basis of past performances, and with the advantage of playing on its home floor, figure to win from the Buckeyes.

Iowa and Indiana meet in another interesting battle, tonight. The Iowans still are in the running for the championship with three victories and two losses and with the home-floor advantage expect to win from the Indians.

The Bloomington boys, without a doubt, have the power and if they can get it under way, Iowa may find it hard to continue in the running for the conference championship.

The other game of the night finds Illinois playing at Chicago. The Illini have not won a basketball game at Chicago since 1917 and the Maroons have not won a conference game in six starts this year so some kind of a record will be broken.

HE'S JUST FISHING

Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was fishing at Pearl Islands today in the Gulf of Panama with Col. Arthur Fisher, commandant of France Field, Cristobal.

He flew to the Islands which lie about 50 miles out in the Gulf of Panama, in the Boeing pursuit plane which he used when here last year.

By FRANK GETTY

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—Tex Rickard's best big fistie spectacles always were preceded by plenty of legal battles, injunctions and what-nots, and the one the late promoter started down here at Miami Beach gives no indication of promising an exception.

Accordingly, Jack Dempsey, the new promoter, is hailing Young Stribling into court today to settle with writs and injunctions the question of whether the Georgia contender for the heavyweight title is or is not to refrain from riding in airplanes and on motorcycles until after the fight with Jack Sharkey February 27.

The whole business is just so much ballyhoo. Young Stribling is no more interested in breaking his neck than the promoters. But Tex always used to say that these legal squabbles did not harm and kept the old publicity pot boiling.

The injunctions which preceded the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Philadelphia and later on the one at Chicago were of a somewhat more serious nature. They were brought by outsiders, for one thing.

Dempsey has demanded an injunction to restrain Stribling from flying and motorcycling on the ground that a lot of money is wrapped up in the Georgian, and he must be delivered intact at the ringside, if no further, on the night of the 27th.

Going to Philippines

Brig. Gen. Frank McCoy, who has been supervising elections in Nicaragua, is slated to become Governor-General of the Philippines in place of Henry L. Stimson, who is reported will be Secretary of State in Mr. Hoover's cabinet.

He and Col. Fisher said they would return to France Field tomorrow.

At 6 a. m. tomorrow, Lindbergh will leave on the northbound mail trip through Central America to Miami, Fla., over the same route he used in his pioneer flight from United States to the Canal Zone with air mail which landed him at Cristobal Wednesday.
